

CEMA Board, (l-r): Evan Steiner of Enter-Active Networks, Ron Westphal of Newport Diversified, Michael Martinez of N2 Industries, John Lemieux of Dandy Amusement, and Ron Hunt of Betson West.

From left: Bob Snyder of Bob Snyder & Associates, Satinder Bhutani of Andamiro USA, and Peter Casas of The Pelican Group.

From left: Rob Thomas of Mulligan Family Fun Center, Bob Snyder (l) of Bob Snyder & Associates, and Rorie Keller and Keller of Sureshot Redemption. Keller holds Sureshot's exclusive Hoberma Sphere.

Phil Showler (l) of Helix/Embed and Chris Brady of LAI Games.

Debbie Gonzalez of Universal Space (UNIS) by Up & Away.

Randy Cesco (l) of Venco and John Lemieux of Dandy Amusement.

Jim Chapman of Coast to Coast Entertainment by Prize Cube.

Sal Cifala of Firestone Financial speaks at a business session.

Drew Maniscalco (l) of Andamiro USA with John Bailon of PS Vending.

STATE MEETING

2nd Annual CEMA gathering

The 2nd Annual California Entertainment Machine Association (CEMA) Meeting and Spotlight Show was held Jan. 22 in La Mirada, Calif. This year's theme promised value to CEMA members, and the 36 product exhibitors, by keeping an eye on industry-related legislative issues in the state capital.

CEMA Board Member and President, Michael Martinez of N2 Industries, welcomed the assembled during the standing room only Organizational Meeting, stressing that a growing membership in the association is one way to keep that promise. "Our membership needs to grow and look out for the industry. We need a solid voice to protect our interests. We need as many members as we can get," said Martinez.

The industry-related legislative issues that concern CEMA board members are any present or future legislation that can affect the business operations of its members. Martinez commented that as of Jan. 1, all laborers in California are now required to have