

Universal Space

Bunny Pond is a new kiddie redemption, water gun game with a smaller footprint for flexibility. Players use skill to squirt the bunnies back home, and is great for even the youngest of players. No plumbing needed and is easy to keep clean, great for any indoor location. Bunny Pond comes in a bright and colorful cabinet and includes an elephant water squirter and fun and attractive music and sound effects. (www.universal-space.com)

LAI Games

New from LAI Games is the carnival-style Shooting Mania. This exciting video redemption game challenges players to shoot toy targets with virtual guns to win tickets and earn chances at the bonus round. If a player fails to completely shoot down a target, your fellow players will have a better chance. (www.laigames.com)

Bandai Namco Amusement America

Bandai Namco Amusement America has announced that production of the Star Wars: Battle Pod has begun and units will be shipping out this month. Star Wars: Battle Pod features a 180-degree horizontal field-of-view that creates a realistic visual experience that transports players to a galaxy far, far away and straight into the heart of battle. Players will be able pilot some of the most memorable vehicles in the Star Wars universe. (www.bandainamco-am.com)

Bay Tek Games

Bay Tek Games recently announced the addition of two new games to its product line, HopStar and Full Tilt, both of which are shipping now

HopStar is an interactive skillful-based game with bright colors and a durable, infrared hop pad. Players coin up and hop as far as they can on the hopscotch course in a set amount of time. The player-paced hopping detection means the course will only go as fast as the player can hop, making it fun for all ages.

The variety of 3D courses on the 42-inch screen allows for a new challenge every play. The progressive jackpot, course times, and difficulty controls are all adjustable in the operator menu, making the game fit any location.

Full Tilt stands at almost 10 feet tall with an adjustable marquee, but only takes up a small amount of real estate, less than 15 square feet. Players guide the ball from the very top down the playfield by using the wheel to rotate the gear platforms that directs the ball as close as they can to the desired score. The player wins the awarded number of tickets of the slot that the ball lands in. (www.baytekgames.com) ▲
